

SOCIAL PHILOSOPHY
THOMAS BROMMAGE
PHM 3100-001
SPRING 2007

This course definitely took me by surprise. It was more challenging than I anticipated, but it was worth my time. Mr. Brommage had such an amazing way of presenting the philosophers. He was really engaging with a very unique presentation, seemed very approachable and very understanding. Overall amazing.

The best thing about this course was the manner in which it was taught. I loved that you related the material to modern day issues in order to give us a better understanding. We learn more (in my opinion) when we care about the material. The fact that you got people to care about philosophy simply by your own enthusiasm and their relation to it is truly amazing. You rock!

Tom Brommage has an outstanding ability to very quickly organize information and repeat it to students in a manner they can understand. He has a very commanding knowledge of everything related to the text, yet does not talk down to or over his students. If it was not for his excellent answers to his students' questions, his lectures would appear practiced.

I enjoyed the discussions in class; and how Professor Brommage would constantly initiate thought and talks. Each paper that needed to be done had clear guidelines.

Honestly, Mr. Brommage is one of my favorite teachers. Unlike most in the university field, he really does stimulate the class with his anecdotes. He also does a very good job explaining the test. Only problem I had was all the reading, it was a bit much.

Brommage is one of my favorite instructors. My only suggestions for improvement are handing out worksheets with main points and page #s at the beginning of a new philosopher. More class discussion is also preferred, along with more time for paper.

You taught a genuinely interesting course and passionately and effectively communicated ideas throughout. My one criticism would be that I felt you let tangential conversations started by idle class members take over class discussions that could've been much more fruitful.

Classes are well formatted with goals clearly described before-hand. Don't change a thing!

You Rocked!

Professor is engaging and interesting. He challenges students to think outside their comfort zone. Many times he would go against ideals established under social norms to provoke critical thinking. He is very helpful, and aided me in improving my writing skills. His class will affect my ability to think in a broader perspective.

Professor was very good and really showed a passion for what he taught. The material was a little difficult to keep up with. Maybe a pre-req. course should be required.

Excellent course. Very thought provoking.

The order in which the different philosophies were taught as well as transitions in between made course material very cohesive and easily understood.

This is my second course, by choice, with Professor Brommage and I would gladly take another of his courses. I would recommend Brommage to anyone interested in philosophy and inform them that his course is quite thorough and insightful. Go Brommage you Rock!

I like how you'd take an ignorant comment and categorize it into a well-established line of thought, so the people seem more intelligent.

I really enjoyed this class. The discussions and debates were always fun and intellectually stimulating, and Professor Brommage does an excellent job of keeping everyone on topic.

You are very funny. It's great for such a dry class; it's just the material though, not you. I always smiled because you add "right, yah?" at the end of a lot of sentences.☺

Excellent professor except for I thought we were a little scrunched for time at the end with Russell. Having a paper due the day of the exam is a lot of extra work when you are trying to prepare for finals.

Very good teacher.

Best course and teacher I have taken in college. I enjoyed the way he involved us in discussions. He kept the class fun and on-point.

Excellent teacher and was very informative on the content taught within the class.

You Rock! Please keep Russell as required reading. I think it would help some people.

Very thorough, covers and explains material well. Very good personality.

The lectures were very interesting. Even though some of the books were quite a bore, you make it not so overbearing. I'm glad I took this class.
